He just called me and confirmed for tomorrow at 9:30 am. (He'll go to the 9th floor and ask for STeve).

He said it might be a couple of step process because he doesn't have all his thoughts formulated and he'd like to hear from us first.

He will lay everything out tomorrow and give us time to respond...if necessary.

What he did tell me is that he has talked to a dozen people who formally worked in our R&D operation (including Malik). They have told him that we were working on "very good technology in many areas but chose not to follow-up on many of them." He said he had a lot of questions on ingredients ...nitrocimenes (sp?)...nitrates...etc.

Sounds to me like it could be an expose on "suppressed breakthrough research" that might be intended to go along with the CID type issue as well as others.

Looks like a hot potato to me!
